

MARKETING CASE STUDY

A unique component of the Foundry team is our ability to custom design and build a marketing strategy exclusively catered to your property with a top-tier, in-house marketing team. Our marketing professionals are consistently recognized in the industry for their best in-class product, setting the standard for commercial real estate marketing.

The marketing pieces to the right are from a current United Methodist Church property that we have under contract in Columbus, Ohio. The church property is located across from the Ohio State University, providing tremendous potential for ministry users as well as redevelopment for student housing, etc.

Our team carefully crafted the following marketing pieces to speak to both types of buyers (owner/user and developers), driving maximum traffic to the brokers. The church is currently under contract with a developer.
